41 Years…

From B-1

Reinforcing their call to unite Philippine businesses in the fight against poverty, the Philippine Business for Social Progress (PBSP) celebrated their 41st year with the theme: "Harnessing business as leverage against poverty". Now 252 members strong, PBSP remains steadfast in their focus on strengthening the corporate social responsibility programs of their member businesses and integrating them into the core of their business operations.

"We recognize that the problems of poverty, environment and education require big solutions," said PBSP chairman Manny V. Pangilinan. [illegible]

During the annual membership meeting and foundation day celebration held recently at the InterContinental hotel, PBSP unveiled their impressive achievements from the past year. [illegible]

Among PBSP's key achievements are [illegible]

PBSP also introduced their [illegible] new members and paid tribute to former PBSP trustee [illegible]

United States Ambassador to the Philippines, His Excellency Harry Thomas Jr., [illegible]

Toyota's Sta. Rosa plant doesn't just manufacture cars but goodwill as well.

[illegible]

As a vital cog of the Toyota Motor Philippines (TMP) operations, its Sta. Rosa manufacturing plant located within the sprawling 82-hectare Toyota Special Economic Zone in Laguna reflects much of the values that the automotive leader holds dear. Like any other responsible corporate citizen, TMP is mindful of the ecological impact of its operations. Hence, it is immensely proud of being the first automotive company in the Philippines to be ISO 14001 certified under the International Organization for Standardization for Environmental Management.
